

Title: Estimation of Small Norms in Data Streams

Speaker: Jelani Nelson

Abstract: In the data stream model one receives coordinate-wise updates to a high-dimensional vector and must process all the updates using very small memory while still being able to approximate functions of the underlying vector. I will discuss the case where the function we wish to approximate is the p -norm for $p \leq 2$, and I will describe algorithms which use optimal space.